People have said that planning and running the Great Park is like overseeing a whole other city.

Now, the park will have its own sort of state of the city address.

Great Park Corp. Board Chairman and city councilman Larry Agran will give the first state of the park report at the board's July 12 meeting.

The speech comes two days before the launch of its first attraction, the passenger balloon.

And, if you manage to make it to the speech, it will be followed by a reception in the City Hall lobby at noon.
